

Going, going, gone... And coming, coming, here!

Good-bye fresh tomatoes, basil, cantaloupes, Indian summer days, and helloooo pumpkins, hard squash, fall chard, and chilly, dark mornings. We are in the middle of the splashy, colorful, exuberant Fall! The erratic back-to-school energy has calmed, and a sweeter-sweater kind of thing has taken its place. Are you finding yourself a little nostalgic for no reason? Wanting a cup of tea or blanket and don't know quite why? It's time to change time. It's time to get cuddly. Nurture yourself. Take a slow hike. Stop and smell the last roses, for now. Treasure and savor every delightful moment of these changes, within and without. Be like a tree: colorfully alive, ready to let go, and generous with your smile, it's Fall! (By the way, can you see the church tower in the wine glass?)

Food treat: the amazing Margherita!

This is so easy, it's too easy: We love a pre-made, 8" corn crust, but you can use your favorite. Grate  $\frac{1}{2}$  -  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup mozzarella cheese (to your taste). Slice 1-2 small tomatoes or romas. Chiffonade 4-5 leaves fresh basil. Put cheese on crust (you can add one clove pressed/minced garlic to the cheese if you like). Arrange tomatoes on top (we add olives, too). Sprinkle with some olive oil, basil, & salt. Bake at  $450^{\circ}$  for 8-10 minutes. Serve with a salad. Bon appetite!

FYI (flower essences):

Tomato: vibrational cleanser, cleansing of blockages, a oneness of energy and physicality

Basil: helpful in recovery of illness, good for releasing emotional chaos inviting peace to prevail.

Olive: open-mindedness, ancient knowing that releases rigidity and oils our grip on fears.

Essence of the Season: Carrots

Carrots have been growing all season and are being yanked out of the ground now. The key word is grounding. The color is the second chakra which has to do with masculine-feminine balance and creativity. Ground in your dreams and projects with a little carrot essence. If you feel spacey, think of the magical carrot... it does help us see!

Chuckle:

Although I don't feel that much older, when I told one of my piano students I was 5 once, he looked at me... nodded, then said, well, that was in the olden days, right?

I said, not that far back, we had a TV. He asked, color? I said, play the piano. Argh!

Yoga Stretch: Shoulder opener with a strap

Hold the strap in both hands at shoulder level. Breathe in and lift the strap up. Slowly, let the strap out as you lower your arms behind you. Keep your jaw relaxed and shoulders down. Pay attention to where it feels tight, and hold it there for 2-3 breaths. Release it all the way down, and repeat 2 more times. Breathe in as you lift, and say "ahhhh" as you lower.

It is a sweet way to release your day, or if stress has built up and there wasn't time (or energy) for a spin class, this is for you. It calms children (and animals), transforms anxiety, and acts as Mrs. Sandwoman. Sweet dreams!
